◀  Portuguese Vinho Verde White ▶

The most famous dry white of northern Portugal, Vinho Verde (literally "green wine") is made in the province known as the Minho. Historically, these were Portugal's most inspiring aperitif wines because they were simple, zesty, low in alcohol, as crisp as can be and inexpensive. Most Vinho Verdes are made from the grapes Alvarinho, Loureiro and Trajadura. Sometimes, the wines are a tiny bit fizzy, adding to their refreshing quality.
